Sex-change Gloria 'must stay a man'

MEN who have sex-change operations must remain male in the eyes of the law, three Appeal Court judges ruled yesterday.

"Sex therapist" Gloria Greaves, 50—born Thomas Robinson—was appealing against a conviction for living off the earnings of prostitution—an offence only a man can commit. Greaves' plea that he was a woman was dismissed.

His trial followed police raids in Central London when "torture" gadgets were discovered.
