AIR GIRL VICKY WAS A MAN!

A FORMER British Airways steward was back at work yesterday . . . as a stewardess.

Victoria Ball — who used to be known as Peter — donned her red, white and blue uniform dress, to welcome BA passengers in Heathrow Airport's European terminal.

Victoria worked as a steward on jumbo jets before having a sex-change operation. Now she wants to get back to flying as an air-hostess.

Smashing

A female colleague said: "She's a smashing person, with a lot of spirit. Vicky had an operation, but she doesn't want any publicity."

A British Airways official said: "We know of this situation, but it is a sensitive matter."
