I hope your AZT treatments have not given you headache or diarrhea or gas. Those side effects do pass. There were trial people here in Milwaukee and they got over those. Often they were taking higher doses than are now recommended.

I was able to weddle the T cell count out of the Isoprene guy last week. It is down to 100 now. At this rate those nasty viruses will have wiped all the T cells out next year or sooner. Then we are flying on a wing and a prayer only with the help of a good physician.

I am starting to investigate a good way to leave what remaining your thoughts on these matters too. I think the tangible assets would be worth more to the group than the small amount of cash they could get <sup>out</sup> of its sales once realtors fees, taxes etc are paid. And to give it away ~~to~~ them prior to my death (with proviso I could stay on) would eliminate death tax.

Or should it all first be sold for what it will bring and the money given to some other group like a college, NCF or WCLU, BUMT nationally? What do you think? Love as always. <sup>(3)</sup>
