

Feathers, Fiery Temperament, and One Death Guaranteed at Each Show. On Halloween 1963, the renowned Black Cat bar in North Beach was forced to close. Jose Sarria, caught above in full aria, first attracted Gay audiences to the club in 1948 with his wild renditions of popular operas. Jose and his loyal pianist and friend Hazel McGinnis will recreate the fabled bar with an opera spoof for one night only to mark the Twentieth Anniversary of the Closing of the Black Cat. Jose narrates the story, sings all the tunes, and guarantees a stormy death at each performance. At the Valencia Rose, Wednesday, November 2, 8 P.M. Admission is $5; reservations 863-3863.
